When you get down to it, Kelly and Vicki's story could be anyone we know, both successful in their professions, Kelly in his painting business and Vicki in her nursing profession, they both struggled with long hard hours and no family life. Kelly found he was always battling the cost of materials, finding enough work to keep the employees busy or enough employees to handle the work. Then, when he finally had the right person to handle the job, that person would undercut the company and start his own business, becoming his competition and Kelly would be back to square one. Couple that with collecting the money from the builders and it became a very stressful way to try to build wealth.

Vicki started in the nursing profession to help people, but was often frustrated with the bureaucracy of insurance companies, the demands of the doctors, administrators and unbelievable health risks. As a registered nurse, Vicki worked long hours and oftentimes double shifts in the emergency room. Both of our jobs provided excellent income but at the sacrifice of our family, our health, and our hobbies, Market America allowed us to help people through the fantastic products in our Mall Without Walls™ and for Vicki, generously giving of her time to the benefit of others, especially with the Transitions Lifestyle Program.

Change is only a decision and an action plan away. We were ready for a change and when Market America came along, it gave us the perfect action plan.

Kelly is often asked what happened to the business when he had replaced the income with Market America. His answer, "I gave it to the employees. People say that it was very generous of me, but I was just getting even with them."

We have been able to help dozens of people walk away from the 45-Year Plan, have built a significant ongoing income, physically we are in the best shape of our adult years, and we are with a company that offers us the brightest of all futures.

Kelly will share just how to make it happen for your families, but more importantly explain how by helping others succeed, everyone succeeds. There truly is no other business in the world like the UnFranchise. A "down-to-earth" person with whom everyone easily relates to and enjoys learning from, it's no wonder why Kelly was asked by corporate to become the Southeast Regional Director.
